STAKEHOLDER RELATIONSHIP ASSESSMENT

What	How	Why
Social capital is the intangible value that is created through the networks of relationships between people and organisations. Social capital underpins and supports a well-functioning society and productive economy.	Standard Bank supports various initiatives and engages with many organisations as an investment in social capital. In 2016, we piloted an assessment of our relationships with a number of important stakeholders to better understand their expectations of us, and whether or not these are being met.	This approach helps us to focus on the quality of our stakeholder engagements, whether we are building social capital and trust, and where we need to improve.

Political economy work

After meeting with a wide range of South African stakeholders early in 2016, including political parties, black professional organisations and trade associations, and civil society groups, we embarked on a number of initiatives to meet their legitimate expectations of a leading South African bank. These initiatives fall within a strategy work stream that seeks to contribute to a changing political economy: one that supports inclusive growth and economic transformation.

STAKEHOLDER ENGAGEMENTS IN 2016

CEO Initiative

A number of Standard Bank's leaders have been working with government, organised labour, and other corporations, to enhance the competitiveness of the South African economy, and build investor confidence.

Democracy support programme

We continue to fund political parties represented in the National Assembly as a contribution to a robust and maturing democracy in South Africa.

Black professional organisations

We regularly engage with several organisations to build linkages with black entrepreneurs, business owners and professionals including the Black Management Forum, the Association of Black Securities and Investment Professionals, and the Association for the Advancement of Black Accountants in South Africa.

Civil society organisations and think tanks

Standard Bank values the critical role played in our society by organisations that build South Africa's social and intellectual capital. We support several organisations, including the Mapungubwe Institute for Strategic Reflection (MISTRA), and the Helen Suzman Foundation (HSF), the World Wildlife Fund (WWF) and Leadership for Conservation in Africa.
